

Approaching and Dividing Cultures: New Goods Between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, 1492-1824

Organizers:

Bartolomé Yun Casalilla, European University Institute
Bethany Aram, Universidad Pablo de Olavide

Coordinator:

Irene Fattacciu, European University Institute

Working languages: English, Italian and Spanish

Friday, 17 December 2010

Sala Europa, Villa Schifanoia, Via Boccaccio 121, Firenze

I Session: 09.30-13 h. GOODS AND CONSUMERS TRAVELING AND TRANSFORMED

Bartolomé Yun (European University Institute) “Presentation of the Research Project. Cross-Cultural Exchanges during European Expansion”

Bethany Aram (Universidad Pablo de Olavide)
“Spices and the Sixteenth-Century Hispano-Burgundian Court”

11 h-11:15 COFFEE BREAK

Rebecca Earle (University of Warwick)
“Food and Travel in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries”

Giovanni Levi (Universidad Ca’Foscari di Venezia)
“Corn and its Introduction in Italy” (in Italian)

12: 30- 13 h: DEBATE

13 h-14:30 h: LUNCH

Courtesy of the
John Carter
Brown Library

Original in the John Carter Brown Library at Brown University

II Session: 14.30-17 h: COMMERCE & CONSUMPTION

Manuel Pérez García (European University Institute)

“The Commercialization of American Dyestuffs in the Eighteenth Century”

Ragnhild Hutchison (Norwegian University of Science and Technology in Trondheim)

“Tobacco as a consumer good in eighteenth-century Norway”

Cinta Canterla (Universidad Pablo de Olavide)

“A view from northern ports. Hamann, Spanish commerce and the social forms of Liberalism” (in Spanish)

16:30-17: DEBATE

Saturday, 18 December 2010

Sala 3, Badia Fiesolana, Via dei Roccettini 9, S. Domenico di Fiesole

III Session: 10 h- 13 h: IDENTITIES IN ATLANTIC HISTORY

Igor Pérez Tostado (Universidad Pablo de Olavide)

“The Hispanic Monarchy vs. the French Sugar Empire on the Island of Hispaniola”

Irene Fattacciu (European University Institute)

“Atlantic history and Spanish consumer goods in the eighteenth century: The assimilation of chocolate and the fragmentation of European identities”

Jorge Cañizares-Esguerra (University of Texas at Austin)

“New Perspectives on Atlantic History: Connecting the various 'national' Atlantics”

12:00-13:00h: GENERAL DEBATE

13h: LUNCH

Department of History and Civilization

Proyecto de Excelencia HUM 5330