

Short Bio:

Adelien Decramer earned her Ph.D. degree of Doctor in Applied Economic Sciences from Ghent University in 2011. Her research interests include several HRM and organizational behavior themes. She addresses performance management and contributes to the understanding of employee performance management. She published several articles in A1 journals such as British Journal of Management, International Journal of Human Resource Management and Evaluation and Program Planning.