COURSE SYLLABUS

3. ACADEMIC CONTEXT

3.1. Course Description and Objectives

The primary objective pursued by this course is the understanding of fundamental rights and their position in the Spanish constitutional system, as a previous and necessary condition to the implementation of a system of separation of powers, studied in the course Constitutional Law I. At the same time, the way in which the course has been structured will allow students to develop their critical and analytical skills, through the analysis of the differences that may exist between legal texts and social reality.

3.2. Contribution to the Training Plan

The substance of the course will focus in the general theory of fundamental rights, their essential content specified by the case-law of the Spanish Constitutional Court, as well as their system of institutional, jurisdictional and organic guarantees, as established by the Spanish Constitution.

3.3. Recommendations or Prerequisites

Most of the subjects treated in the course, as a consequence of public and political life, are of constant concern for the media. For this reason, the students are encouraged not to see this course as a purely theoretical approach to Law, but on the contrary, as a living instrument from which important outcomes can be extracted for every citizen's life. It is highly recommended to bring a text of the 1978 Spanish Constitution.

COURSE SYLLABUS

6. METHODOLOGY AND RESOURCES

In order to reach the objectives proposed for the subject, the course will be organized according to the following scheme: general intro/background (Lecture Group); practical/developmental learning (Discussion Group).

General Teaching:

A series of basic activities will be carried out as a large group in fifteen 2 hour sessions with the professor. In these sessions, the professor will provide a basic theoretical framework for the course by topic. The content of the sessions will vary according to when they occur throughout the course. Please refer to the Weekly Schedule for detailed information regarding when these sessions will take place.

Practical Work/Teaching

Nine 1.5 hour 'theory-into-practice' sessions. Please refer to the Weekly Schedule for detailed information, by groups, regarding when these sessions will take place.

In these sessions the professor will coordinate practical learning activities, in order to develop the capacity of applying the Constitution, the legal texts and the constitutional jurisprudence. In this sense, these sessions may consist in solving a legal practical problem or case, the study in depth of doctrine or case-law, or the completion of individual and/or group works, under the professor supervision.

Pertinent theoretical/practical questions and problems will be explained and discussed.

Concepts learned in the Theory classes will be put into practice and explored.

Practical learning and knowledge-building sessions are designed for regular attendance.

Active participation in class discussions and completion of all assignments will be valued highly when it comes to assessing students.

COURSE SYLLABUS

7. ASSESSMENT

The proportion of different educational activities developed in this course is as follows: General Teaching (GT) constitutes 70% of the training activities undertaken in the course. The remaining 30% consists of practical work in seminars (PT).

The assessment system will maintain consistency with the training activities undertaken in this type of subject.

General Teaching (GT), specific skills and learning tools acquired will be assessed through a final exam. This will make up 70% of the final grade for the course.

Practical Teaching (PT) will be evaluated through continuous assessment. This ongoing evaluation will include activities designed to reinforce the specific skills acquired in lectures (GT). PT assessment makes up the remaining 30% of the final grade for the course.

In any case, the course will not be passed unless the result of the GT exam is at least 3 over 7.

In the second exam session, students will have the opportunity to retake an exam only in relation with the GT content or, instead, to retake the exam, including PT, which has been already assessed on an ongoing evaluation. If this is the case, students are required to communicate to the professor, within 10 days, their decision to reject the 30% assessment already made, in order to retake a exam including this part.
