

LIBERA RES PVBLICA: MONOGRAPHS ON THE ROMAN REPUBLIC

The collection Libera Res Publica (LRP) intends to publish quality monographs on the Roman Republic (509-30 B.C.), both individual and collective books as well as proceedings of conferences. The collection seeks a clear international projection, aims to be in the medium term an international reference in studies on the Roman Republic, and therefore admits manuscripts in Spanish, English, French, German and Italian. As for the subject matter, the collection is interested in institutional, political, social, economic, historiographic, cultural and gender aspects relating to the Roman Republic.

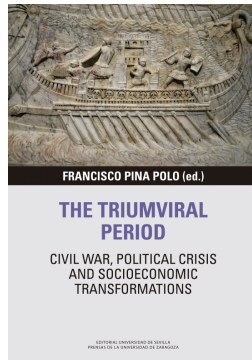

LRP is jointly edited by Editorial Universidad de Sevilla and Prensas de la Universidad Zaragoza, and is co-directed by Francisco Pina Polo (Universidad de Zaragoza), Cristina Rosillo López (Universidad Pablo de Olavide, Sevilla) and Antonio Caballos Rufino (Universidad de Sevilla). To be approved, all manuscripts must have the prior acceptance of the Editorial Board and a positive external evaluation.
